Support Groups

A support group is a local organization of homeschool families who have the desire to share ideas and plan activities together. Most groups have a small annual fee and some groups have restricted memberships (indicated by * after their name). Each support group publishes a newsletter, and distributes it, along with the SETHSA newsletter, The Teaching Pioneer, which contains information of interest to area homeschoolers, and gives details of upcoming activities, such as field trips and social events sponsored by their group. Some support groups have organized classes such as Spanish, art, music, sign language, sports, and other subjects so that skills can be shared. Monthly social activities, such as park days, skate days, or parent meetings, may also be planned. The local support group is vital for encouraging one another, providing social contact, and planning educational group activities.
